2. In Andhra Pradesh, it was recently alleged that the laddu given to devotees at the Lord Venkateswara temple in Tirumala may have used adulterated ghee. What could individual devotees do about quality check and control? Reflect on how the society never considered that nearly no place of worship provides a quality check or certification for any food provided at their premises as an offering (prasaadam) or otherwise. As the matter is sub judice (in the court) and nothing is proven yet, no conclusive remarks must be made about the actual facts of the matter or present assumptions.

   Justify how such responsibility taken up by individuals can be a civic virtue that can lead to a better society in the future. List any two things you may have ignored checking or never bothered about because you assumed that someone else takes care of them being right. In the wake of the issue raised in Tirumala, how do you want to now change your approach towards such “assumed correctness” with things in your personal or professional life? CO-2 BL-4
